Learning Objective: To train preschool teachers to use observation as the foundation for planning, adapting instruction, and respecting individual developmental differences.

Course Modules	Brief Module Description
SP1401 – Purpose of Observation in Early Childhood	Clarifies observation as a teaching tool, not assessment pressure. Teachers learn why noticing is central to effective preschool education.
SP1402 – Learning to Observe Without Judgment	Helps teachers separate observation from interpretation. Focus on describing what is seen, not labelling behaviour
SP1403 – Understanding Individual Developmental Pathways	Explores variations in learning pace and style. Teachers learn to avoid comparison and unrealistic expectations.
SP1404 – Identifying Strengths, Interests, and Needs	Teaches how to notice children's abilities and preferences. Planning becomes strength-based rather than deficit-focused.
SP1405 – Using Observation to Adapt Activities	Shows how to modify activities based on children's responses. Teachers learn flexible teaching approaches.
SP1406 – Supporting Slow-to-Warm or Highly Active Children	Explains temperament differences. Teachers learn supportive strategies for varied engagement styles.
SP1407 – Documenting Observations Meaningfully	Introduces simple and practical documentation methods. Avoids excessive paperwork and complexity.
SP1408 – Communicating Observations to Parents	Guides teachers in sharing observations clearly and positively. Focus on growth and understanding.
SP1409 – Ethical Observation and Child Dignity	Emphasises confidentiality, respect, and professionalism. Observation is grounded in child rights
