Learning Objective : This course equips primary school teachers with developmentally appropriate strategies to improve attention, focus, and engagement in children aged 6–11. Teachers learn how attention develops, why children struggle to stay focused, and how classroom design, teaching methods, and teacher behaviour influence sustained engagement.

Course Modules	Brief Course Module Descriptions
SP1901 – Understanding Attention and Concentration in Primary Children	This module explains how attention develops neurologically and behaviourally during primary years. Teachers learn why sustained concentration is challenging for young learners. Developmental limits are differentiated from behavioural concerns.
SP1902 – Designing Lessons that Capture and Sustain Attention	Focuses on lesson pacing, structure, and relevance. Teachers learn how variety, clear objectives, and meaningful content help maintain student engagement. Common attention-draining practices are examined
SP1903 – Role of Movement, Play, and Brain Breaks	Explores the connection between physical movement and cognitive functioning. Teachers learn structured ways to include movement without disrupting learning. The module emphasises movement as a learning support, not a distraction.
SP1904 – Managing Distraction and Overstimulation in Classrooms	Addresses environmental factors such as noise, clutter, and visual overload. Teachers learn how classroom layout and routines influence attention. Practical strategies to reduce overstimulation are discussed.
SP1905 – Supporting Children with Attention Difficulties	Introduces classroom-based strategies to support children who struggle with focus. Teachers learn inclusive approaches without labelling or diagnosis. Emphasis is on accommodation and consistency.
SP1906 – Building Focus and Learning Stamina Gradually	Focuses on setting realistic expectations for attention span. Teachers learn how to gradually strengthen focus through structured routines and appropriate challenges. Long-term skill development is emphasised.
