Learning Objective : This course equips teachers, school mentors, counsellors, and designated faculty mentors with the knowledge and skills to guide, support, and mentor students holistically within school and college settings. Participants learn how mentoring supports academic growth, emotional well-being, decision-making, and personal development while maintaining ethical boundaries, consistency, and student autonomy.

| Course Modules | Brief Course Module Descriptions | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| SP9201 – Understanding Mentoring in Educational Settings | This module introduces mentoring as a structured, supportive relationship distinct from teaching, counselling, or parenting. Participants learn the purpose and scope of mentoring within schools and colleges. Role clarity and ethical responsibility are emphasised. | | |
| SP9202 – Building Trusting and Developmentally Appropriate Mentor–Mentee Relationships | Focuses on establishing trust, rapport, and psychological safety with students across age groups. Participants learn communication skills that encourage openness without dependency. Respect, consistency, and boundaries are prioritised. | | |
| SP9203 – Supporting Academic Growth and Learning Habits | Explores how mentors can support study skills, goal-setting, time management, and learning motivation. Participants learn how to guide students without micromanaging. Responsibility and self-direction are emphasised. | | |
| SP9204 – Mentoring for Emotional Well-Being and Personal Development | This module focuses on supporting students' emotional awareness, confidence, and resilience. Participants learn how to listen, validate, and encourage healthy coping without taking on a counselling role. Emotional safety is prioritised. | | |
| SP9205 – Guiding Decision-Making, Career Awareness, and Life Skills | Explores mentoring conversations around choices, values, and future planning. Participants learn how to help students reflect on options without imposing decisions. Autonomy and informed thinking are emphasised. | | |
| SP9206 – Ethical Practice, Boundaries, and Referral in Student Mentoring | Focuses on confidentiality, documentation, and professional boundaries. Participants learn when and how to refer students to counsellors or other professionals. Ethical mentoring and child protection principles are emphasised. | | |
